

Arvind Kumar Mishra is a Professor of Psychology at Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. He earned his Master's and doctoral degrees in Psychology from the University of Delhi, Delhi. He has over 32 years of teaching experience. Before joining JNU, he taught at the University of Delhi and Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi. He is the co-editor of five books: Interrogating Development: Insights from the Margins (2010) Oxford University Press; School Education, Pluralism and Marginality: Comparative Perspectives (2012) Orient Blackswan; Dynamics of Inclusive Classroom: Social Diversity, Inequality and School Education in India (2017), Orient Blackswan, and The Marginalized Self: Tales of Resistance of a Community (2020), Primus Books. The Social Context of Learning in India: Achievement Gaps and Factors of Poor Learning (2023), Routledge. Some of his research papers have been published in the American Journal of Orthopsychiatry (An APA Journal), the Journal of Social and Political Psychology, and the International Journal of Disaster Risk Reduction. His research interests focus on resistance to neoliberal modernity, the philosophy of social research, critical social psychology, the academic experiences of disadvantaged students, and self and identity processes among marginalized communities. He has jointly completed an ICSSR research project, “Shared Spaces: Boundaries, Barriers, and Bridges,” and has been the Principal Investigator of a UK- India Education Research Initiatives (UKIERI) research project, “Social Identity, Well-Being, and Civic Participation among Social and Ethnic Groups in India.” He is a member of the editorial board of the journal Psychology and Developing Societies (Sage).